

Information Leaflet

2017

This leaflet has been produced by the 'Bozeat Matters' team in the hope that it will be of service to residents of Bozeat and Easton Maudit.

It contains information on local services and organisations, useful phone numbers, a short history of Bozeat and a village street map.

Regularly updated versions of the leaflet can be found on the website www.bozeat.info in pdf and page-flip version.

We hope that the list of local organisations and activities given in this information leaflet will help you to make friends here.

The contact name for each has been given, so do get in touch with them for more information, we are sure they will be very willing to help.

'Bozeat Matters' is full of interesting information and is delivered free to all homes in Bozeat and Easton Maudit every March, June, September and December.

Today we have a number of assorted retail outlets: NISA Local - Bozeat (previously Bozeat Village Store/newsagents) which has an in-store bakery and a Post Office counter on Monday and Tuesday mornings from 9 am - 1 pm *, hairdressers, curtain fabric shops, public house, Indian takeaway, bus service, several industrial and commercial businesses, with many thriving clubs, associations and youth organisations. We have a Doctor's surgery [Wollaston & Bozeat Practice] in Brookside, [see page 5 for details].

There is a vibrant Community Primary School, and Nursery for children approaching three years old. The local secondary school is situated in the nearby village of Wollaston.

Mains electricity was installed in 1925, water in 1949, sewerage 1950, and gas in 1990.

In January 1989 a bypass road was cut through fields to the west of the village to take the ever increasing traffic flow. A new roundabout was installed at the junction of Wollaston Road and the A509 in the Spring of 2001.

Three private housing estates were built during the 1960's and 1970's. In more recent times further developments have been built within the village boundaries and some buildings changed to residential use so more families have settled into village life.

The village sign was erected in the millennium year after some months of dedicated fund raising. It represents a number of aspects of village life that have continued over the years. As the long established families began to welcome newcomers, the 'us and them' feeling has given way, now making a strong caring community in the 21st century.

The War Memorial in the cemetery was awarded Grade II status in the List of Buildings of Special Architectural or Historic Interest by Historic England.

A campaign against nPower installing wind turbines at Nun Wood was successful in 2014. Planning applications for housing developments off Hillside Close and Easton Lane have been made - action groups were successful in fighting against these although new applications could be made in the future.

Bozeat Community Hall Trust - a Trust group has been set up with a view to running the present Church Hall as a Community Hall for our village.

 a petition for longer Post Office hours has been handed to our local MP Mr Peter Bone for presentation to Parliament*

A BRIEF HISTORY OF BOZEAT

Bozeat is an ancient village with excavated evidence of Iron Age, Roman and Saxon settlements in the immediate area. Saxon coins and a pre-Christian burial area have been found, Roman earthworks and an ancient British iron working. Early remains found in recent times include a Saxon settlement in the vicinity of St. Mary's Road and Wyman Close, and a Roman Villa excavated between Bozeat and Easton Maudit.

One explanation of the name Bozeat points to Saxon origin, as a Saxon, Earl Bosa, owned land nearby.

In the Domesday Book, 1086c, Bozeat is mentioned as a hamlet, and although over the years the spelling has varied with Bosiete, Boseyate and even Bosesete the pronunciation has remained as Beaujet, believed to be derived from the Norman French 'Beau' being beautiful or fine and 'Jet' as fine jet of water.

There are many wells in the village, one of the most important was the communal 'Town Well'. This came from a jet of water coming out of the side of a bank in Dychurch Lane. A charity was registered to provide for its upkeep.

Before the Norman Conquest the Saxon Thane, Strix (of Strixton) held some of the land here under Earl Waltheof a powerful Saxon Earl of Northumbria.

At the Norman Conquest, William the Conqueror gave most of the land locally to his niece Judith who became the first Countess of Northampton. Judith married Earl Waltheof, so the Saxon Earl and the Norman Lady became joint owners.

The Norman Parish Church built about 1130c is indeed older than both Easton Maudit and Wollaston churches. It survived the Great Fire of Bozeat in 1729 when all older Registers of Bozeat and Strixton were burned in the Vicarage.

In the 15th century there was a thriving weaving industry within the farming community, but by the beginning of the 20th century the population had risen to 1200 and boasted a cottage lace making industry, a shoe industry and a windmill, with many independent tradesmen, making a very self-reliant village. At this time also, Bozeat had at least twenty shops which enabled the purchase of all the necessities for bringing up a family, a school, five public houses and four churches.

The village shoe trade dates back to the middle of the 17th century but until the middle of the 18th century it was considered a cottage industry. These men made and mended shoes in small buildings near their home which were called 'shops', but although some remain today, they now serve a different purpose. The population grew rapidly when spacious shoe factories were built, providing much needed employment for both men and women, and these remained Bozeat's main trade until 1982 when the last shoe factory closed.
